THE GAZETTE.

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 2, 1861.

COMMUNICATED. DEAR "BALM OF GILEAD:"-It always gives me great pleasure to hear from my personal friends; and especially to learn their perfect restoration from protracted indisposition .-You must have gained your strength very rapidly, for you "blow your own horn" remarkably strong. And how sweet the notes! Some of them remind one of David, harping down the wrath of Saul; but when you give it that dulcet turn-"smacking so much of the Ethiopian minstrelsy," I am all up for "Way down upon de Swanee ribber, Far, far away,— Dare's wha my heart is turning ebber, Dare's wha de old folks stay."

But the fact is you are smart about every thing. You can even tell us that Abraham was a "prophet."

The strong pharmaceutic perfume which your article emits might lead one to suspect you to be some defeated Quack-but of course not! Your talking so much about "diagnosis"-"disease"-"excessive use of opium' -- "poppies" and "soporifies," originates in your use of those drugs during your late attack. We understand this. Not that you know any thing about medicine.

I commend you for the high-tone and defiant manner in which you say—"my ene-mies cannot hurt me." You are right, Sir. You are too small for an enemy to hurt. This reminds one of the man who undertook to "spank a child," but finally concluded there was no place large enough on which to lay his hand. But don't be offended at the truth; for candor is a mark of unfeigned friendship. Supposing you to be a brisk young fellow, marked out for the exigencies of the times, I was unable, in a great degree, to give a correct diagnosis of your disease; but now that you inform us that you are "an old fellow," we have concluded that your late aberration originated in dotage." This, you know, is a common characteristic of old age; and propriety, not to mention a number of other considerations, should constrain a man of your years to retire from the arena of public conflict.

In conclusion, permit me to say that I desire to re rain from puerile personalities and public debates; and shall therefore take no further notice of any thing from the "Balm of Gilead." I desire, simply, to write the truth, for the Truth's sake; and when I shall have fulfilled my brief mission, I shall quietly retire from public gaze. Affectionately. CEDAR OF THE SOUTH.

Violet Dale, Feb. 27, 1861.

Spring.-The signs of Spring are abroad. You cut your vines and they bleed, for Spring has touched their roots and sent the limpid sap coursing through the branches. You trim your fruit trees, and from every wound ex- merit a share of public patronage. udes the life-diffusing fluid. Here and there, in the longtime withered and brown lawn, a tuit of green appears, pale and delicate and circumscribed, but of the indubitable emerald of Spring, nevertheless. You strike your spade into the earth, for it is no longer hard as flint or granite, you turn over the sod-it crumbles and gives out that peculiar aroma known only in the first days of the vernal season, and so welcome always to the husbandman and the gardener. The blossom-buds of the covering of the rich brown varnish the pale at facilities are afforded by which every comfort yellow of the blossom appears. The mid-day sun has a Spring warmth that makes creation glad, and surer sign than all, the beautiful blue birds have come back to us, and for a week past have been reconnoising their old tenements in anticipation of repossession.

denied that, and do not intend to deny it .--But we affirm, nevertheless, that Spring is abroad, that she has been tripping over the earth and left here the indelible imprint of her footstep, and there the influence of her warm and life-giving breath. Winter may yet throw his white mantle over the print of her feet, and chill the growth that her breath awakened. But the gentle maiden will triumph over the stern old tyrant, and win the willing earth from his dominion. And anemerald carpet shall be prepared for her, and a hundred early blossomings and thousands of bursting buds and tender, opening leaflets, and a million of grateful hearts, shall weicome her appearing. Aye, and even the gentle frost and the blustering North wind shall but be messengers, the better and the sooner to prepare the earth for her reign .- New York Commercial.

The London American of the 9th ultimo, says:-We learn that an outrage has been committed in Palestine on two American travellers, the Rev. Dr. Leyburn and Mr. Low. These gentlemen being on their way to the Dead Sea across the wilderness of Engedi, had | the attention of farmers to our large and well sehalted for refreshment, on the 26th ult., on | lected stock of the shores of the Jordan, when suddenly a party of Arabs, one of whom had been having a conference with their guide, an Arabsheikh, rushed upon them from an ambush with pointed spears and at full gallop, demanding their money. Mr. Low, presented his revolver, but it missed fire, whereupon the Arabs took their watches, jewelry and clothes, and disappeared across the river, taking two of their horses, which was afterwards found. The sheikh galloped off to Jericho for help. Mr. Low was fortunate enough to discover an Arab cloak, and he and his companions, scantily clothed, made the best of their way to Jerusalem. Mr. Page, United States Consul, took immediate steps for the discovery of the robbers, and of the Paca that the Arab sheikh should be kept as a hostage, which was done. The event will undoubtedly lead to the demand for guarantees for the better security of American travellers.
